Consistent and purposeful use of St. Joseph’s brand elements is instrumental in accurately and effectively communicating the promise St. Joseph’s makes to its stakeholders, each and every day.

Corporate Brand Standards | Identity Elements | Logos

The corporate logo is an essential part of any form of communication.

The configuration shown here is the only authorized logo for St. Joseph's Health Care London. It consists of an icon and wordmark locked together. Elements are not to be separated.

The control field (or clear space) is indicated here. The "O" in "Joseph's" represents the minimum space to be left clear around the logo in any application, and should be strictly adhered to. When possible, the addition of more white space will add greater legibility and distinction to the logo.

The logo must be printed on a white background or one providing sufficient contrast for the colours to remain distinguished.

Minimum Sizing

The logo should be no smaller than an inch wide on all materials (excluding some forms and business cards where room is at a premium.)

TIP: To resize the logo hold the "shift" key on your keyboard while clicking on a corner of the logo to size it proportionately.

NOTE:

Rotating, stretching, compressing, screening, encroaching, or any other modification is to be avoided in order to maintain the integrity of the St. Joseph's brand.

Corporate Brand Standards | Identity Elements | Logo Versions

Colour

The identity here indicates the only proper colour signature, with the logo in PMS-285 (blue), PMS-577 (green) or their respective CMYK or RGB equivalent. This combination must be printed on a white background or one providing sufficient contrast for the colours to remain distinct.

Black

For single-colour applications, the logo should appear as 100% black.

Like logos, colours and consistent design structure, proper font usage is an integral part of maintaining brand identity.

Arial is one of the most widely used fonts. Because it's easy to read at large and small sizes and in a variety of applications, Arial has been a staple font for decades and will be used as the primary digital font.

Calibri is the primary print font for St. Joseph's. It's a modern sans serif font family with subtle roundings, providing a warm and soft character. It features real italics, small caps, and multiple numeral sets and language glyphs. Its proportions allow high impact in tightly set lines of big and small text alike. Available in two weights with their respective italics, it allows us to communicate effectively with all levels of stakeholders.

Arial and Calibri are standard system fonts, allowing for ease of use on both PC and MAC platforms.

Photography is a key tool for showing the diverse and dynamic community of St. Joseph's.

Imagery should be consistent with the tone of St. Joseph's content. Photography needs to demonstrate diversity in individuals and within the care we provide. It should always be candid and natural, never forced or appear staged, drawing the viewer in through a genuine, authentic quality.

When taking photos of patients, the proper consent form must be filled out and added to the patients record. the 'Consent for Photography, Video and/or Sound Recordings of Patients' form can be found on the intranet or contact Communications and Public Affairs for assistance.

Clip-Art is not a professional form of imagery and therefore not permitted.

Stock Photography

Stock photos are not to be used except in rare circumstances. Please contact Communication and Public Affairs to ensure proper usage. If stock is needed, it cannot use faces. If photography is needed that uses a face, call Communication and Public Affairs at 519-646-6034 to discuss options.

Orientation

Most of the photography used across St. Joseph's is in a landscape (or horizontal) format. This is important for web and social media platforms. Portrait (or vertical) is used primarily for newsletters and brochures. Consider taking multiple versions in different orientations to address all possible applications.

Photography captures the spirit of our care, connecting with our audience in ways that words can't.
